Games Instruction Guide

If you purchased this activity through eBook or CD, then you may choose to laminate your game cards first. Next, cut out cards along the solid black line. Store in a gallon size zip-lock bag when not in use.

Time Line Cards

Time Line Cards are to be put in order from the beginning of the 20th Century to the end. This game should be played until your child has a thorough understanding of the sequence of events.

Map Markers

Map Markers contain an image of every topic in the unit study. Place each Map Marker on a World Map according to where the event happened. For example: Hoover Dam would be placed in the state of Nevada. Some markers can be used in multiple locations. For example: WWII could be placed in any of the countries involved in the war.

Matching Cards

Match the pictures to the descriptions. Cards can also be turned face down and used in a game of Concentration.

Bingo

This Bingo game is to be played after about every 5 topics during your 20th Century Study. It is a great way to cement words and concepts your child has learned.

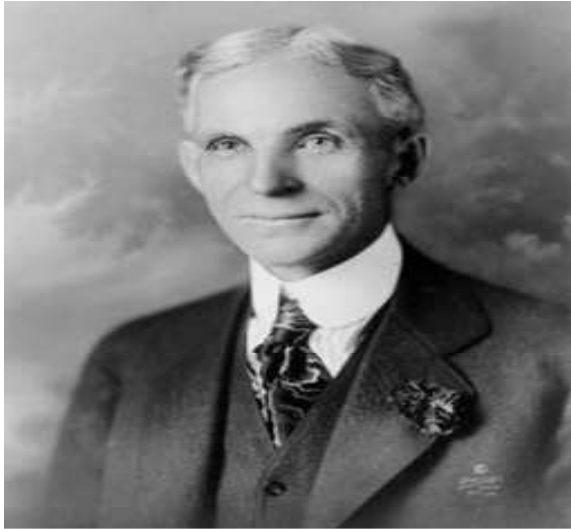

Print blank cards for all players. As is the nature of Bingo, more than one player is needed. Help or either have your child go through the information pages and call out important words from the lessons. Write them down on a white board so that they can be seen. Do more than you will need to fill up your card. The card we have provided has 20 squares, so we suggest having at least 30 words to choose from as every player's card will need to be different.

Have each player fill out his own Bingo card from the words on the board. Tell your child to skip around and randomly write words. No two Bingo cards should be the same. Now write the words from the board onto a slip of paper. These are the words you will draw and call out. The players mark their cards when a word on their card is called out. A winner can be chosen after a bingo or after a "black-out." (entire card covered)

Scavenger Hunt

Find as many items as you can while going through your 20th century study! Cross them out as you find them. Some will be harder to find depending on where you live.
